

The Midnight Roar and the Morning Sun

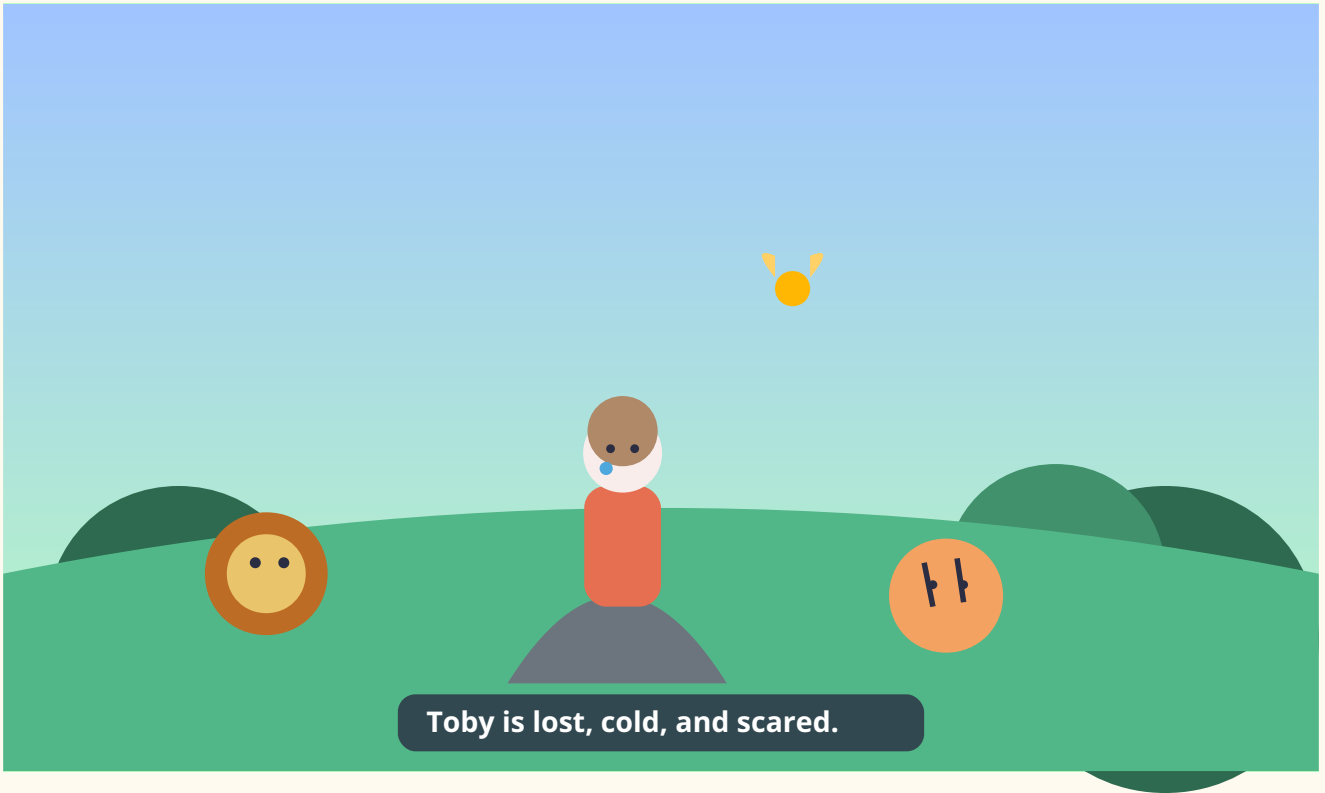

Deep in the green woods lived three good friends. There was Leo the lion with a golden mane, Taj the tiger with cool stripes, and Shadow the wolf with silver fur.

Lions, tigers, and wolves do not usually play together. But these three shared food, played games, and kept each other safe every single day.

"True friendship has no rules," Leo always said with a happy smile.

A Lost Little Boy

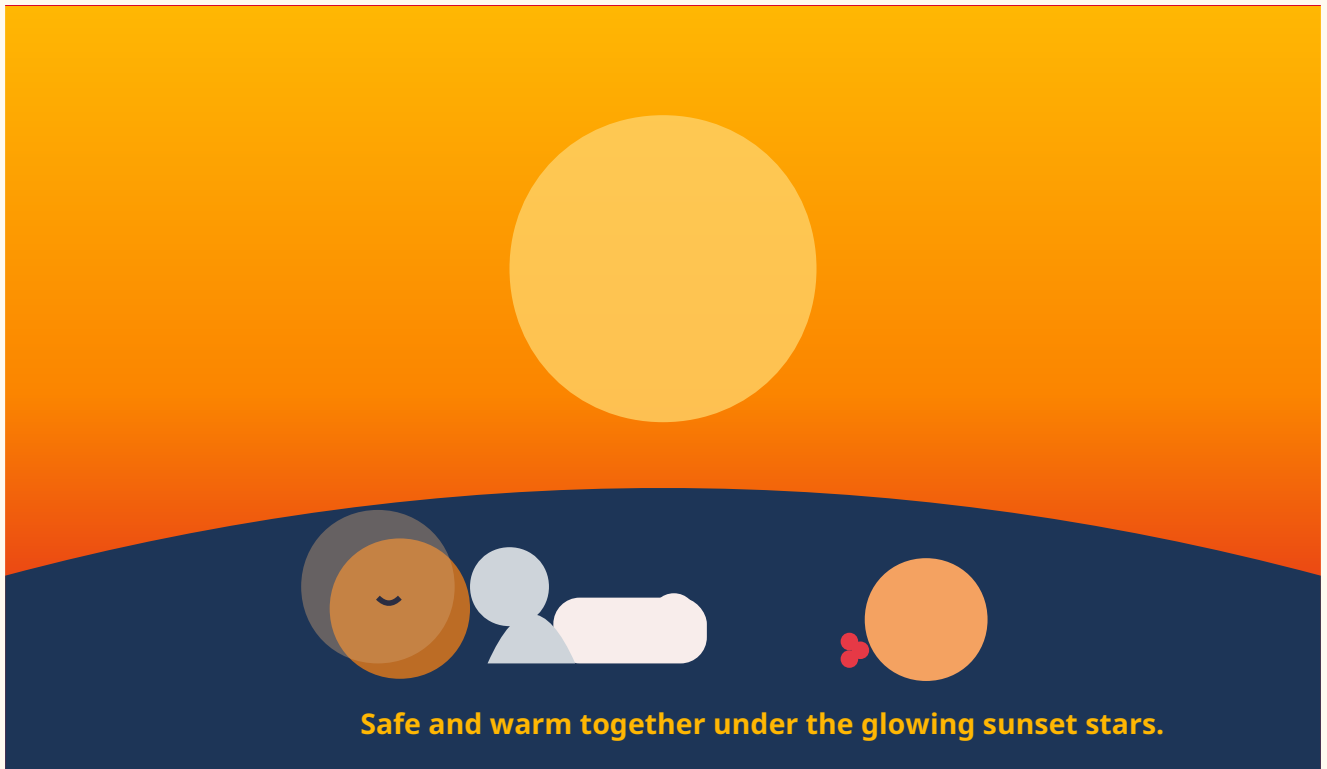

One sunny afternoon, a strange sound echoed through the trees. It was a soft cry. A young human boy named Toby sat on a rock, weeping softly.

Toby had chased a bright yellow butterfly and wandered too far from his family. Now he was lost, cold, and very scared.

When Leo, Taj, and Shadow stepped out of the bushes, Toby gasped. He thought wild animals would be fierce monsters!

Kindness Has No Species

Instead of roaring, Leo lowered his big golden head and purred softly like a warm heater. Taj brought sweet raspberries for Toby to eat.

Shadow curled up right beside Toby's legs, sharing her warm fur to keep him cozy as the sun went down. Toby smiled and petted Shadow's soft silver coat.

"Thank you for being my friends," Toby whispered happily, feeling safe at last.

The Morning Sun and Happy Ending

The next morning, golden light woke up the woods. Far away, shouting voices called out: "Toby! Toby, where are you?"

The lion, tiger, and wolf guided Toby safely to the edge of the forest. Toby ran into his family's open arms with tears of joy.

Toby looked back and waved goodbye to his brave animal friends. They proved that kindness has no boundaries!
